Rotary Serving Humanity

Sanders School March & April 2017 Students of the Month

MARCH Joseph Wildman is a 5th grade student who enjoys reading “Diary of a Wimpy Kid” books and spending time working independently. Joe has come out of his shell since starting Sanders in the middle of the school year. During his free time, he can be found with his classmates stacking building blocks and knocking them down like dominoes. He was chosen Student of the Month because of the personal growth he has made, while taking chances and making new friends these last few months. Bethany Morgan is a 7th grader who displays a positive attitude in class, has made good efforts in class and has completed nearly all assignments in both Science and Social Personal with 100%. Mateo Blanco is an 11th grade student who has been making great strides and gains in making good choices. He has averaged well over 90 out of 100 daily available points. Mateo is interested in going to a technical school to learn a trade possibly as an electrician. He knows that school is important to his future, that you cannot do anything without it. He says he now has control over his decision making and knows what he needs and how to get it.

APRIL Kamron Penner is a 5th grader who loves playing basketball with his friends and playing games on the computer. Kamron has made significant strides in his behavior this year. He has learned to make good choices by taking a cool off period when frustrated, instead of negatively reacting to his frustration. He has also become a mentor to the younger elementary students, by offering to help them with difficult tasks and by inviting them to play with him & his friends during recess. Travis Thomas is a 10th grader who is smart and who demonstrates consideration and respect toward staff and peers. He is always willing to help, even without being asked to do so. He is doing well in academics and plans on playing football next school year for Northeast High School. Marcus Holley is a 12th grade student who consistently earns 100 out of 100 points on his daily point’s sheets. Since joining the Sanders team, he has been working hard towards his goals. Marcus’s teachers from Calvin Hunsinger School say he is generally soft-spoken yet social. He is generally well liked by his peers. He has a good sense of humor and is able to relate well with others. He enjoys sitting and listening to age level peers. Marcus is very compliant with teacher direction and generally responds, when prompted, to perform any type of required action in the classroom.
